Strain Lounge

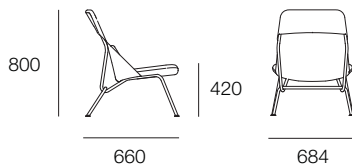

by Simon Morasi Pipercic

Despite its visual lightness, the Strain lounge from Prostoria provides comfort expected from larger dimension sofas thanks to the seat with elastic band support, stretched backrest shell and lumbar cushion.

The backrest shell is upholstered in house leather and the form is obtained by stretching from the top of the structure to the bottom of the seat. The lumbar seat cushion may be upholstered in a selection of house textiles. Finish options for the mild steel base include black lacquer, black chrome, black powdercoat and copper.

A collection of Strain coffee and side tables provide the perfect complement to the lounge chair.
