Intercity Modular Lounge

by Pietro Arosio

Intercity is a modular system that adapts to any environment, making it infinitely versatile. With a wide choice of basic modules, straight, curved or peninsula configurations can be created. The Intercity base is made from die-cast aluminium, while its seats are formed in differentiated density polyurethane foam for comfortable relaxation and ergonomically correct support. The various seats in this range are available with or without backrest, and may be upholstered from the Tacchini house collection of fabric and leather.
